I. Purpose

Where Are the Jobs? What Do They Pay? 2000 Covered

Employment and Wages is an annual publication of the Wyoming Department of Employment that summarizes employment and wage data for employers subject to the Wyoming Employment Security Law (Wyoming Statutes §§27-3-101 through 27-3-704) and Federal civilian workers covered by the Unemployment Compensation for Federal Employees (UCFE) program.

Data Sources and Transformations

Administrative data sources are transformed into a statistical data set and are used to construct this report. The Quarterly Contributions Reports (QCRs), also known as Quarterly UI/Workers' Compensation Summary Reports (Form WYO056), filed by employers with the Wyoming Employment Tax Division, serve as the primary source of administrative data. The QCRs have information about monthly employment,¹ quarterly wages, and Unemployment Insurance (UI) taxes. Industry and geographic information are added to these reports to identify economic activity more specifically. The Multiple Worksite Report (MWR), the Industry Verification Form, and Federal data collected by the State supplement QCRs (see Technical Appendix on page 6 for a more complete description of these reports).² The combination of QCRs and other reports is collectively referred to as the ES-202 report or Covered Employment and Wages program.

Each firm's location is in the database as a separate record for a specific quarter. In some instances, a firm has multiple records in the database because it has multiple worksites as determined by the Multiple Worksite Report (see Technical Appendix on page 6 for a more complete discussion of MWRs). In other instances, a firm with multiple worksites has a single record for a specified time period. The number of units can generally be interpreted as the number of firms operating in an industry or geographic location.

Data Uses

The primary objective of this publication is to support local planning and economic development efforts. It also provides information for the administration of employment and training programs. Local economic planners use the information to estimate future demand for schools, roads, and other infrastructure. Banks utilize the information to conduct economic forecasting. Utility companies use the information to determine demand. Insurance companies refer to it when setting rates.³ Private consultants incorporate the information in economic models and projections, while the media use it for various articles and publications about the economy.

Government uses Covered Employment and Wages data for many purposes. Workers' Compensation and Unemployment Insurance (UI) departments compute tax rates based on Covered Employment and Wages data. The Wyoming Business Council uses the data as one basis of its economic performance benchmarks and to advance economic development within Wyoming. Covered Employment and Wages data form the foundation for performance measurement and program evaluation research carried out by Research & Planning (R&P) in response to the Workforce Investment Act (WIA) of 1998. These data are also used to audit other programs within the Department of Employment.

The U.S. Department of Commerce, Bureau of Economic Analysis uses the data for two main purposes: to calculate the wage and salary component of personal income, and in the calculation of Gross Domestic Product.

As a statistical measure, private and public entities use these data to gauge the economic health of the labor market. While by no means exhaustive, these examples show how Covered Employment and Wages data are used in public and private arenas.

To meet various customer needs, the data in this publication are organized into many different sections, including statewide, region, county, industry, and establishment size (see page vi for a complete list of tables). The following questions can be addressed through this publication:

- * Which regions and counties are growing the fastest? This information may be used by businesses looking to expand into Wyoming.
- * What industries pay the highest wages?
- * Which industries have the most jobs? The least?

Geography

Research & Planning has designated the following five regions for the Covered Employment and Wages program:

- * Northwest Region - Big Horn, Fremont, Hot Springs, Park, and Washakie counties
- * Northeast Region - Campbell, Crook, Johnson, Sheridan, and Weston counties
- * Southwest Region - Lincoln, Sublette, Sweetwater, Teton, and Uinta counties
- * Southeast Region - Albany, Goshen, Laramie, Niobrara, and Platte counties
- * Central Region - Carbon, Converse, and Natrona counties

When a firm is unable or unwilling to report one or all of the places it conducts business in Wyoming, we report the geographic region as Nonclassified.

Confidentiality

Data provided to the Wyoming Department of Employment by employers are held in strict confidence pursuant to the Wyoming Employment Security Law. To protect the identity of firms, the agency withholds publication of employment and wage data under the following circumstances: (1) The industry consists of three or fewer reporting units, or (2) A single employer accounts for 80 percent or more of the industry's employment. Data not meeting the agency's confidentiality criteria are indicated as ND (Not Disclosable).

Data Limitations

Due to the continuous collection of ES-202 data, all numbers are preliminary and subject to revision. Data are considered final within nine months (three quarters) of initial reporting (see Technical Appendix, page 6 for additional information on quality control). Detailed data may not add up to the total due to nondisclosure and rounding.

Because an employer may be unable or unwilling to report the location of multiple worksites, not all firm locations are reported in the tables. An employer may not make a distinction between worksites due to incompatibility with the accounting methods used by the Wyoming Department of Employment.

Not all employers are required to submit wage and employment records. With certain exceptions, employers exempt from the Wyoming Employment Security Law include agricultural production firms, railroads, and the self-employed (see Technical Appendix, page 6 for a complete list of employer classes exempt from the Wyoming Employment Security Law).

Publication Contents

This publication covers Wyoming employment and wages by industry in 2000. It provides detailed regional and county information on the number of employers, employment, payroll, and average wages. Current quarterly information and historical data to 1989 are on our website at <http://LMI.state.wy.us/toc_202.htm/>. The table order has changed from previous years. Tables are now referred to by their titles rather than by table numbers.

For information on the United States and other states, see U.S. Department of Labor, Bureau of Labor Statistics, Employment and Wages Annual Averages, 2000, Bulletin 2546, October 2001. For wage data specific to occupations in Wyoming, see Research & Planning's Wyoming Wage Survey publication, which is available on our website at <<http://LMI.state.wy.us/00oespub/toc.htm>>. Information on benefits offered by Wyoming employers can be found in Employee Benefits in Wyoming: 2000, which is also available on our website at <<http://LMI.state.wy.us/benefits/bentoc.htm>>. A database of occupations that can be customized for a specific industry, and earnings by age, gender, and industry are available on our website at <<http://LMI.state.wy.us/staffing/Staffing.htm>> and <<http://LMI.state.wy.us/wfdemog/toc2.htm>>, respectively. II. Summary of the 2000 Annual Covered Employment and Wages (ES-202) Program

Highlights

- * In 2000, average statewide employment, weekly wage, and total payroll were higher than 1999 levels.

- * Employment in Wyoming increased by 2.6 percent from 1999 to 2000.
- * The average weekly wage increased by 4.6 percent from 1999 to 2000.
- * From 1995 to 2000, employment rose by 8.8 percent.
- * From 1995 to 2000, the average weekly wage climbed by 20.0 percent.

Average Employment

Employment, as measured by UI covered employment, is based on place of work rather than an employee's place of residence. For example, an individual may work in Sweetwater County while living in Carbon County. Consequently, the number of jobs worked in an area does not always reflect the number of residents. In addition, the number of jobs in an industry or geographic area does not directly translate into the number of individuals employed. Although most individuals work in a single job, some people hold multiple jobs. In 1998, 14.8 percent of Wyoming workers held more than one job.⁴

Average annual employment in Wyoming rose by 5,909 jobs (2.6%) from 224,946 in 1999 to 230,855 in 2000. The industries with the largest employment in 2000 were Government (54,864 jobs) and Services (52,163 jobs). Government consisted of 7,461 Federal jobs, 11,748 State jobs, and 35,655 Local jobs.⁵ Agriculture⁶ and Wholesale Trade had the smallest number of jobs with 3,527 and 7,740, respectively.

The highest growth in employment was in Mining (7.5% or 1,197 jobs) and Agriculture (3.4% or 117 jobs). Employment growth in Manufacturing was 3.3 percent. However, changes in the industry classification of a number of firms through the refile process was the main contributor to the increase in the number of jobs (about 300) in Manufacturing rather than to real growth in the number of firms. The smallest growth in employment was in Finance, Insurance, & Real Estate (FIRE) (0.2% or 17 jobs). Transportation, Communications, & Public Utilities (TCPU) experienced a decline in employment of 0.8 percent (-91 jobs).

At the regional level, the Northeast region led Wyoming in employment increases with an additional 1,471 jobs, up 4.3 percent from 1999 to 2000. The Northwest region had the lowest increase in employment, adding only 225 jobs (0.6%). Campbell County experienced the largest increase in employment of the 23 counties (1,040 jobs or 6.0%). Niobrara County saw the largest percentage decrease in employment at 4.1 percent (33 jobs). Complete regional and county employment data are available on page 13.

Total Payroll

Total payroll in Wyoming jumped by 7.4 percent ($400 million), from $5.8 billion to $6.2 billion, between 1999 and 2000. The industry with the largest payroll was Government ($1.5 billion), followed by Services ($1.1 billion). Agriculture and FIRE had the smallest total payrolls with $68.6 million and $254.7 million, respectively.

Although Agriculture had the smallest total payroll, it had the second largest percentage growth in payroll at 11.9 percent ($7.3 million). Mining sustained the largest percentage growth at 20.2 percent ($157.5 million). The smallest was in TCPU at 2.9 percent ($11.8 million). The only industry with declining payroll was FIRE (-7.8% or -$21.7 million).

Regionally, the largest percentage growth in payroll occurred in the Central region at 13.1 percent. The Northwest and Southwest regions had the smallest payroll growth, each with 2.9 percent. At the county level, Natrona County had the largest increase in total payroll at 16.2 percent. Two counties, Niobrara and Fremont, experienced declines in total payroll of 1.8 percent and 0.1 percent, respectively. The payroll increase in the Central region and Natrona County was largely the result of a $77.3 million bonus paid in the fourth quarter of 2000 to some workers in oil & gas extraction. For additional regional and county total payroll data, see page 13.

Average Weekly Wage

The average weekly wage in Wyoming rose 4.6 percent, from $493 in 1999 to $516 in 2000. Mining and Manufacturing experienced the largest increases of $111 and $35 per week, respectively. Retail Trade saw the smallest increase in average weekly wage with $6. Only FIRE saw a decline with a loss of $53, which may be partly attributable to a bonus paid in the third quarter of 1999 to employees of a company in Teton County. Because the one-time increase in the third quarter of 1999 is reflected in the 1999 yearly total, the average weekly wage in FIRE decreased from 1999 to 2000. If the bonus were not included, it is possible that wages may have remained flat or even increased.

Regionally, the largest growth in average weekly wage was in the Central region at 11.2 percent. The Southwest region had the lowest at 1.8 percent. The county with the largest growth in average weekly wage was Natrona County (13.6%). Two counties experienced declines: Teton County (-1.3%) and Fremont County (-1.1%). Growth in average weekly wage in the Central region and Natrona County was related to a fourth quarter bonus paid to some oil & gas workers.

Growth from 1995

Employment in Wyoming increased by 8.8 percent from 212,217 jobs in 1995⁷ to 230,855 jobs in 2000 (see Table A). The largest job growth occurred in Construction (3,643 jobs or 25.7%). The smallest job growth occurred in TCPU (52 jobs or 0.5%).

Wyoming's total payroll increased 30.6 percent, from $4.7 billion in 1995 to $6.2 billion in 2000 (see Table B). The largest increase in total payroll was in Construction (56.4%). Agriculture and Manufacturing had the second largest growth rate at 51.2 percent each. The lowest growth in total payroll was in Government (18.9%).

From 1995 to 2000, the average weekly wage in Wyoming rose from $430 to $516 (20.0%) (see Table C). The largest increase was in Manufacturing (28.8%) while the smallest was in Government (15.0%).

Summary of 2000 Data

For the most part, industries and geographic areas across Wyoming experienced increases in the number of jobs and wages paid from 1999 to 2000. Some of the gains or losses observed were due to one-time events, such as bonuses paid or changes in industrial classification. In addition, short-term growth did not necessarily translate into longer-term growth. For example, employment growth was strong in Mining from 1999 to 2000 (7.5%) but weaker over the longer-term of 1995 to 2000 (1.1%). The contrast of the short term versus long term demonstrates the sometimes volatile nature of Wyoming's economy.

III. Technical Appendix

This technical appendix includes explanations that may be helpful to readers and data users who want additional information on the concepts and methodologies used in the Unemployment Insurance (UI) Covered Employment and Wages program. We describe our data sources, methods of classifying data, data quality control, and discuss the circumstances in which employers are exempt from UI coverage. Additional information on Covered Employment and Wages is available online from the Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS) at <<http://www.bls.gov/cew/home.htm>>.

Data Sources

Data on UI covered employing units, employment, and wages are compiled from Quarterly UI/Workers' Compensation Summary Reports (Form WYO056). Described by the BLS as a Quarterly Contributions Report (QCR), the WYO056 form captures total UI wages for the quarter (including tips), bonuses, UI taxable wages, tax due, total UI amount due, and number of workers as of the 12th of each month for each establishment. The Multiple Worksite Report (MWR), the Industry Verification Form, and Federal data collected by the State supplement QCRs. The Industry Verification Form is used to verify or correct industry, geographic, and ownership codes assigned to employers subject to Wyoming UI laws. The MWR is sent quarterly to collect employment and wage data by worksite for employers with a total of ten or more employees at two or more locations. These sources of data together are referred to as the ES-202 report or the Covered Employment and Wages program.

Industry Classification

Employment and wage data are classified according to the codes and titles published in the 1987 edition of the Standard Industrial Classification (SIC) Manual prepared by the Executive Office of the President, U.S. Office of Management and Budget. The SIC manual provides a classification of establishments on the basis of their principal economic activity. The SIC classification system was developed for the purpose of promoting a uniform presentation of statistics by Federal agencies, state governments, and private research organizations. Businesses are assigned an industry classification based on the main product or group of products made or distributed, or services rendered. The SIC includes ten divisions (also known as the ten major industries) that are broken down into 1,004 four-digit industry codes. For example, dairy farms are in the Agriculture industry, and have a four-digit SIC code of 0241. A list of SIC titles and codes to three digits is included in Appendix A. For a complete list of SIC codes and their definitions, see U.S. Office of Management and Budget, Standard Industrial Classification Manual, 1987, available online at <<http://www.osha.gov/oshstats/sicser.html>>.

Government data (referred to in the SIC manual as Public Administration) are represented as Federal, State, and Local with two- and three-digit SIC breakouts. Prior to 1989, publications of Covered Employment and Wages data did not include Federal government employment.

Quality Control of Data

Records are in the ES-202 database by quarter and are reviewed several times before being considered final. Some items that are corrected include data entry errors, inconsistencies in employment or wage data from previous quarters, and errors due to change in ownership. Data are considered final after a nine-month (three quarters) revision period. For example, data from the fourth quarter of 2000 (the months of October, November, and December) were considered final in September 2001.

To insure that employer data are accurately reported, industry, geographic, and ownership codes assigned to UI-covered reporting units are periodically reviewed and updated via the Industry Verification Form. The Industry Verification Form is also a primary source for collection of new worksite physical location address information for both single and multiple establishment employers.

UI Coverage

Wyoming law requires that employers provide UI coverage for employees if the firm (1) has a payroll of $500 or more in a calendar year, or (2) acquires an organization, business, trade, or substantially all of the assets of an employer that is subject to the law at the time of the acquisition.

UI coverage under the Wyoming Employment Security Law has been expanded twice. On January 1, 1972, coverage was extended to firms employing one or more workers, State institutions of higher learning (i.e., the University of Wyoming and seven junior colleges), and State hospitals. On January 1, 1978, coverage was extended to employees of State and local (city, county) governments, non-profit elementary and secondary schools, certain larger agricultural establishments, and certain domestic workers. The full text of the Wyoming Employment Security laws are available from the State of Wyoming website at <<http://legisweb.state.wy.us/statutes/titles/title27/chapter03.htm>>.

The following classes of employment are exempt from coverage under the Wyoming Employment Security Law:

(1) Agricultural labor, unless an employer has a payroll of $20,000 or more in any one quarter or employs ten or more workers for at least a part of one day for 20 weeks within a calendar year.

(2) Domestic help (persons employed as household help), unless earnings exceed $1,000 in any one quarter.

(3) Services performed by an individual while in the employ of city, county, or state government if such individual performed such services as (a) an elected official or certain policy making and advisory positions, (b) a member of a legislative body or the judiciary of any political subdivision, (c) an inmate of a State custodial or penal institution, (d) a member of the State National Guard or Air National Guard, or (e) an emergency employee hired temporarily in case of a disaster.

(4) Services performed for churches or conventions or associations of churches or religious organizations.

(5) Services performed by a student of a school, college, or university in which that individual is enrolled and regularly attending classes, or by the spouse of a student if the spouse is informed at the time of hire by the institution that the employment is provided under a financial assistance program and is not covered by unemployment compensation.

(6) Services performed by an individual enrolled in a full-time program at an educational institution combining academic instruction with work experience if the service is an integral part of the program and is certified by the institution to the employer. This does not apply to services performed in a program established for an employer or groups of employers.

(7) Services performed by an individual under the age of 18 in the delivery of newspapers or shopping news. This does not include delivery or distribution to any point for subsequent delivery or distribution.

(8) Services performed by an individual in the employ of a son, daughter, or spouse, and services performed by a child under the age of 21 in the employ of a parent. (In general, this exemption applies only to sole proprietorships or a partnership consisting only of the child's parents.)

(9) Services performed as a licensed real estate broker or salesperson employed on a commission basis only.

(10) Services of barbers and beauticians if the barber or beautician is responsible to the shop owner for rent only. If the rent agreement is on a percentage basis, the barber or beautician is considered to be an employee.

(11) Services performed by an individual receiving rehabilitative services from a facility providing rehabilitation programs for individuals with reduced earning capacities because of age, physical or mental deficiencies, or injury. Also includes wages paid to workers who are not readily absorbed into the labor market because of physical or mental deficiencies.

(12) Services performed by a hospital patient employed by the hospital.

(13) Services performed for the Federal government or any federal agency exempt by Federal law, except service for those agencies otherwise required by law to contribute to any state unemployment compensation fund.

(14) Services performed by an individual receiving wages as part of a work experience or workfare program assisted or financed by the Federal government or any state or local government, except for those on-the-job training employees who are wholly or partially paid by the employer.

(15) Self-employed individuals.

(16) Workers in the railroad industry who are covered by unemployment programs under the Railroad Retirement Act.

(17) A nonprofit organization paying wages to less than four individuals for less than 20 weeks in the preceding year.

(18) Services performed as casual labor. "Casual labor" means service of less than two (2) consecutive weeks and not within the normal course of business.

(19) Services performed by a private duty nurse employed by a private party.

(20) Services performed by an individual who is the owner and operator of a motor vehicle which is leased or contracted with a driver to a for-hire common or contract carrier. The owner-operator shall not be considered an employee if he/she performs the service pursuant to a contract which provides that the owner-operator shall not be treated as an employee for purposes of the Federal Insurance Contributions Act, the Social Security Act, the Federal Unemployment Tax Act, and income tax withholding at source.

(21) Services performed by a member of a limited liability company, unless the limited liability company elects coverage for a period of not less than two years with written approval.

Upcoming Changes

For the calendar year 2001 publication, SIC codes will be replaced by the 2002 North American Industrial Classification System (NAICS, pronounced NAKES). The system is designed to allow comparability of data between all countries participating in the North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA). Similar to the industry classifications within the SIC system, NAICS is divided into sectors. The 20 sectors are broken down into 1,170 six-digit industry codes. Using dairy farms again as an example, under NAICS, dairy farms are in the NAICS sector Agriculture, Forestry, Fishing, & Hunting. The six-digit NAICS code assigned to the industry is 112120. Due to differences in the NAICS and SIC structures, data for 2001 will not be comparable to SIC-based data from previous years. However, converted SIC data for 2000 will be included in the tables for comparison purposes. For a complete listing of NAICS titles and codes, see U.S. Office of Management and Budget, North American Industrial Classification System available online at <<http://www.census.gov/epcd/naics02>>.

Through the Annual Refiling Survey (ARS), R&P updated all employer SIC codes to 1997 NAICS codes. Additionally, subsequent to further Federal revision of NAICS, beginning in the fall of 2000 R&P converted selected 1997 NAICS codes to 2002 NAICS codes. Data with all 1997 NAICS codes are available beginning with the first quarter of 2000 on our Internet site at <http://LMI.state.wy.us/toc_202.htm>. For further discussion of the impact of NAICS, see Research & Planning, "North American Industrial Classification System (NAICS) Major Industry Codes (Two Digit) & Descriptions," Wyoming Labor Force Trends, August 1998, and Mike Evans, "New Industrial Classification System will Affect All Industry Statistics,” Wyoming Labor Force Trends, October 2000, pp. 7-11.

Also, the 2003 publication (2001 data) will be available on the Internet only. Both PDF and HTML versions will be located on our website.

IV. Glossary

Annual Refiling Survey (ARS): An annual process to verify or correct industry, geographic, and ownership codes for employers that are covered under Wyoming Employment Security laws. As part of the ARS process, one-third of employers in Wyoming are sent an Industry Verification Form each year. Within a three-year time span all Wyoming employers are surveyed.

Average Wage: The average wage is the total payroll divided by the average employment in a given time period. The time units used in this publication are weekly, monthly, quarterly, and annually. For example, the average quarterly wage in the third quarter of 2000 is computed by dividing the total payroll by the average employment in that time period. The average wage is a summary statistic combining all wage and salary levels, and all grades and classes of labor. It represents pay received for a particular job performed, not necessarily pay received by an individual. Wages in this publication only approximate earnings because an employee may not be employed by the same employer all year or may work for more than one employer. Consequently, an industry with a substantial portion of part-time jobs will generally have lower wages per job than an industry with a larger proportion of full-time jobs.

Average Employing Units: The average of reported quarterly employing units for the entire year (see also Employing Unit).

Average Employment: The total number of employees reported divided by the number of months used in the analysis. This includes employees subject to Unemployment Compensation for Federal Employees (UCFE) programs and State Unemployment Insurance (UI) laws who worked full- or part-time or received pay for any part of the pay period including the 12th of each month.

Bonus: Money given to employees in addition to their usual compensation. Bonuses are not necessarily provided at regular intervals.

Employing Unit: The economic unit for which data are submitted on an employer’s contribution report, Multiple Worksite Report, or on an employment and wages report of a government entity or nonprofit organization. It is typically at a single physical location and engaged in one, or predominantly one, type of economic activity for which a single industrial classification may be applied. Occasionally, a single physical location encompasses two or more distinct and significant activities (e.g., a restaurant and a gasoline service station at one location). Also, an employing unit may represent several locations or establishments. The average employing units is the average of reported quarterly employing units for the entire year.

Employment: The number of covered workers who earn wages during the pay period that includes the 12th of the month.

Enterprise: The employer and legal entity of a given Unemployment Insurance (UI) tax account. An enterprise may consist of one or more units.

Establishment: Where business is conducted or where services or industrial operations are performed, generally at a single physical location.

FIRE: Finance, Insurance, & Real Estate; one of the ten major industries within the Standard Industrial Classification (SIC) system.

Gross Wages: As reported on the Unemployment Insurance (UI) Tax Report, gross wages are the total dollar amount of compensation paid by an employer during a quarter.

Industry Verification Form: Used in the annual refiling survey to verify or correct industry, geographic, and ownership codes for employers that are covered under the Wyoming Unemployment Security laws.

Multiple Worksite Report (MWR): Used for the collection of monthly employment, quarterly wages, and Unemployment Insurance (UI) tax information for those employers with two or more locations with a total of ten or more employees.

North American Industrial Classification System (NAICS): An economic classification system based on production processes of countries participating in the North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA).

Quarterly Contributions Report (QCR): Contains information about monthly employment as of the 12th of each month, quarterly wages, and Unemployment Insurance (UI) tax information. Also known as the Quarterly UI/Workers' Compensation Summary Report (Form WYO056).

Refiling: An annual process which uses the Industry Verification Form to verify or correct industry, geographic, and ownership codes for employers that are covered under Wyoming Employment Security laws. Also known as the Annual Refiling Survey.

Region: An economically integrated geographic area within which individuals can live and find employment within a reasonable distance or can readily change employment without changing their place of residence. Wyoming has five regions for the Covered Employment and Wages program: Northwest, Northeast, Southwest, Southeast, and Central. For a list of the counties included in each region, refer to the Geography section on page 3.

Standard Industrial Classification (SIC): A system of industry classification based on the main product or group of products made or distributed, or services rendered by a business.

Total Payroll: The sum of all wages paid to covered full- and part-time employees, including commissions, bonuses, cash, the reasonable cash value of board and meals, housing, payment in kind, and all payments in any medium other than cash. Included in this calculation are wages paid for overtime, extra shift work, vacation pay, holiday pay, and bonuses. Wages of salaried officers of corporations, executives, and persons on vacation or sick leave are also included in Total Payroll.

TCPU: Transportation, Communications, & Public Utilities; one of the ten major industries of the Standard Industrial Classification (SIC) system.

Unemployment Insurance (UI): A national system for providing a source of income to individuals who, for various reasons, are temporarily without employment.

Unemployment Compensation for Federal Employees (UCFE): The Federal system of Unemployment Insurance. Two of the Federal agencies that submit UCFE information are the Department of Defense and the United States Postal Service.

Wyoming Employment Security Law: The series of Wyoming statutes that outline the functions of Unemployment Insurance (UI) in Wyoming. Includes Wyoming Statutes §§27-3-101 through 27-3-704.
